Body of Steubenville Enforcement Agent Found in Alley.

POLICE WITHOUT CLUE

Liquor Runners Believed Guilty—Second Dry Officer Killed.

Steubenville, O., Dec. 26.—Shot through the head and back, the body of Charles "Dixie" Blinn, prohibition enforcement agent was found early today in Marsh alley, a dark thoroughfare in the heart of Steubenville. Blinn's activities in enforcing the Crabb act and his life has been threatened a score of times police say.

Police are without a definite clue to the murderer. One bullet entered Blinn's head and another passed through his back and penetrated his heart causing instant death. The third passed through his hand, indicating a struggle. His clothing had been rifled and his revolver and pocket book stolen. His body was lying in a muddy spot in the dark alley and was found by a negro who was returning home from a dance which was held only a short distance away.

Marsh alley is the center of the Polish and negro sections of the city. Thus far the police have found no one who heard shots. It is their belief this morning that Blinn was murdered in a nearby house and carried to the alley. He had been dead two hours physicians say before his body was found.

Blinn had been conducting numerous raids in all sections of the county had been in numerous scrapes. He and his assistant had been on a raiding expedition early last evening and it is believed it was while in the act of raiding a place in the Marsh alley district that he was slain. An assistant to Blinn has disappeared but it is not thought he was with him at the time of the shooting.

Blinn is the second prohibition enforcement officer to be slain here within a short time. Michael Voltry was found along a roadside near here several months ago with four bullet holes in his body. Three others who assisted Voltry in making liquor raids were also slain in various parts of the county.

LIMBLESS BABY DIES

Chicago, Dec. 26.—There was sadness in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Le Brasca Christmas. Their only child, born without arms or legs, is dead.

"This is my cross to bear," the mother said when the baby was born. But today both mother and father expressed the belief that it was "for the best" that the child had been taken away in infancy. Nevertheless, they were sad when they looked upon the toys they had purchased for the baby's first Christmas and which lay undisturbed.

For five weeks doctors and scientists had debated the question of whether or not baby Le Brasca should be scientifically put to death. Those who contended against it won out. It was pointed out that while the child might have a weak body physically, mentally she might prove to be the sensation of the age.

RESERVATIONS EXPECTED ON BORAH'S PLAN

Conference Proposal Meets With Storm of Disapproval

SENATE DIVIDED

Farm Block Leaders Will Support Borah—Senate Meets Wednesday.

Washington, Dec. 26.—A flood of reservations today threatened to engulf Senator Borah's proposal for an international economic and disarmament conference as Senator Lodge and other Republican leaders sought to calm the angry verbal tempest it has already aroused.

Following a series of conferences held by administration spokesmen it was stated Lodge and his associates might be willing to accept the Borah plan as an amendment to the pending navy supply bill provided he in turn agreed to the reservations they were considering.

Enough of the probable nature of these reservations was conveyed to Borah and other senators standing with him to convince them they would be "destructive" of his proposal, and reduce it to a mere declaration of policy by the senate regarding the German reparations muddle without making it mandatory on the administration to summon such a conference.

Borah said today he was being flooded with communications from outside the senate urging him to press the adoption of his proposal and expressing the warmest approval of it. He explained he was seeking a practical solution of the European economic and financial crisis which in his judgment, is imperiling the peace of the world, and the welfare of the American people, as well as the nation's overseas. He was willing to accept any substitute for his plan provided it would accomplish the purpose for which his own proposal was intended.

Borah would be willing to have the reparations morass submitted to arbitration he added, and the good offices of the Hague tribunal employed to that end, but he believed the United States was in a position to bring about a readjustment of European affairs without becoming entangled in them any more than it is now. He pointed to the peace conference successfully conducted by former President Theodore Roosevelt at Portsmouth, N. H., which ended the Russo-Japanese war, as a historic instance of the kind of arbitration he had in mind.

He is still unalterably opposed to "entanglement political alliances" such as he thought the Versailles treaty imposed, but he has never assumed the position that the United States should not extend its commercial relations with the rest of the world, and where the economic and financial welfare of the United States was concerned with those of Europe he thought it was to the best interests of the American people that their government should act decisively to help bring order out of chaos.

The statement of Senator Medill McCormick, Republican of Illinois, who has just returned from an European tour that "hunger riots" among the German people this winter are inevitable and Germany is now in dire need of $100,000,000 worth of American wheat will be seized upon by Senators Capper, Republican of Kansas, McNary, Republican of Oregon, and other leaders of the senate "farm bloc," as additional evidence that "buying power of Europe should be restored and the surplus farm products of America made available to hungry European peoples."

Capper and McNary are both ready to lead the "farm bloc" forces to the support of Borah, and to join with him in the argument that the European debacle Senator McCormick said is impending must be averted if the farmers and the rest of the American people are not to suffer acutely from a continuation of the economic and financial stress gripping the German and other peoples of Europe.

Resumption of debate on the Borah proposal when the senate reconvenes tomorrow after its Christmas holiday is regarded as certain to fix the lines of both opponents and proponents of the Idaho senator's plan to restore Europe to a "sound economic and financial basis" tightly drawn, and to result in a bitter verbal storm.

SEES GRAVE EVENTS IN EUROPE UNLESS POLICY IS CHANGED

Washington, Dec. 26.—Senator McCormick of Illinois, who has just returned from a trip through Europe, sees possibility of "gravest events before the end of the winter" in continental Europe unless the allied governments "act with an economic wisdom, prudence and foresight hitherto foreign to their policy."

Senator McCormick, in a statement issued here, indicated that his survey of the European situation convinced him that the nations of Europe must solve their own problems.

"If the governments can not agree on a sound and reliable program for the definite and final settlement for the total sum of reparations which Germany shall pay and can pay," he said, "if they can not agree among themselves and with bankers and investors upon a plan which will stabilize German currency, we may expect the franc and the lira to start down the declivity in pursuit of the mark, the crown and the ruble."

Three general propositions which ought to be included in a new reparations settlement were outlined by the senator as follows:

Priority of payments for the reconstruction of the ruins of northern France; extension of a moratorium to Germany for several years, conditional upon an adequately secured bankers' loan to stabilize the mark, to balance the current German budget and to contribute to French reconstruction this year, and prompt withdrawal of Mohammedan troops from the Rhine and the progressive withdrawal of other troops as the terms of the moratorium and reparations agreements are fulfilled by Germany.

"More important to the rehabilitation of Europe than any conference, than any agreement between statesmen and financiers can be," the senator added, "is the exorcism of the spirit of hate which animates governments and peoples. Unless the peoples are moved by a Christian will to peace and by Christian comity there can be no real peace in Europe."

STATE WILL NOT ASK FOR CHANGE OF VENUE IN CASE IN LOUISIANA

Hearing in Kidnaping Outrage Will Start January 5—City Remains Quiet Over Christmas With No Disorders Reported.

Mer Rouge, Dec. 26.—The state of Louisiana is so confident that its case in the kidnaping and murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards is strong enough to convince even those who may sympathize with persons accused of the crime, that it will not need to ask for a change of venue when the preliminary hearing begins, it was declared today. This hearing has been definitely set for January 5 at Bastrop. It was reported that Governor Parker would ask for a hearing at some other place, but it is not believed here the change will be made.

GERMAN PROPOSALS ARE TURNED DOWN BY FRENCH PREMIER

Frontier Guarantee Not Favored by France as Submitted to Her

London, Dec. 26.—German proposals, submitted to Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes through the French ambassador at Washington, to guarantee the German frontier for thirty years have been turned down by Premier Poincare of France, it was learned here this afternoon in the most authoritative quarters.

Details of the program are not officially known but it is understood that Germany proposed through Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States that Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy enter into a quadruple pact to guarantee the German boundaries for thirty years.

Germany's offer was reported to propose maintenance of the present frontier subject to withdrawal from the pact by any power after a national referendum.

Premier Poincare was to have declined the proposals on the ground that the French constitution did not provide for any such referendum. The French premier was understood to have taken the stand that Germany might attempt to evade her obligations under the agreement through a "faked" referendum.

STATE WILL NOT ASK FOR CHANGE OF VENUE IN CASE IN LOUISIANA

Hearing in Kidnaping Outrage Will Start January 5—City Remains Quiet Over Christmas With No Disorders Reported.

Mer Rouge, Dec. 26.—The state of Louisiana is so confident that its case in the kidnaping and murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards is strong enough to convince even those who may sympathize with persons accused of the crime, that it will not need to ask for a change of venue when the preliminary hearing begins, it was declared today.

This hearing has been definitely set for January 5 at Bastrop. It was reported that Governor Parker would ask for a hearing at some other place, but it is not believed here the change will be made.

Bastrop, La., Dec. 26.—Probability that the next chapter in the Morehouse kidnaping investigations would be written soon in Mer Rouge, looms strongly here.

Attorney General Cocco announced at Marksville, La., that the state expected to jail at least six or seven more on charges of murder in connection with the deaths of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards.

It is believed that many of the men the state suspects as ringleaders of the August white-robed and masked mob will be served with warrants before Jan. 5, the date set for the open hearing here. Developments at the hearing may bring about the arrest of others. Federal agents have declared that they have the names of 20 members of the mob. "The state believes T. J. Burnett guilty of the murder charge upon which he was jailed Saturday," the attorney general declared.

An order was issued denying visitors permission to communicate with Burnett in the local jail except in the presence of an officer of the military detail.

A conference of those conducting the inquiry was announced for Thursday at New Orleans. At that time plans for the hearing will be outlined and the findings of the coroner's jury which held the inquest over the bodies of Daniels and Richards will be discussed.

In spite of all denials, Charles A. Stoneham, it seems wishes to retire from baseball and the first step in this direction calls for McGraw to be placed in supreme command of Giant affairs at a salary commensurate with the importance and responsibility of the position.

Ultimately, this will mean the passing of McGraw as manager of the ball club. At present it means nothing. McGraw will continue as manager and Stoneham as principal stockholder of the club until such time as a change is deemed advisable. Off-hand, we would venture that nothing would be done in this connection until 1924.

"When I first started work as a telephone operator I was a boy," said Secretary McKinney. "Women then used to faint when they heard a voice at the other end of the line. They thought it was supernatural.

"The exchange were Bedlam. Girls were not employed. They wouldn't have been able to stand the strain. The old Bell and Edison companies in the seventies hired boys, preferably thick-skinned, to handle the calls. They stood in a row along the board. When a call came in, a boy would yell at another down the board: 'Give me Old Man Hawkins!' The calls had to be crossed between the boards. At first, there were no numbers. Names were used.

"Since there were only boys in the exchange, subscribers were free to express themselves.

"Competition was so keen that in Dayton, where I entered the business, we used to install 'phones free. The offer from the Edison Company was: 'Put a telephone in your office, and we'll put one in your home free,' said Secretary McKinney.

BISHOP LEE OF WILBERFORCE HELD UP CHRISTMAS EVE AT HIS RESIDENCE

Two armed men, heavily masked, entered the residence of Bishop B. F. Lee, at Wilberforce, Sunday night, at 7:30 o'clock, and after attempting to search Bishop Lee, took money, totaling about twenty-five dollars from Mrs. Lee and Miss Lee their daughter, and escaped.

Bishop Lee and his wife and daughter were at home at the time, of the entrance of the burglars, who entered by the front door of the house, which was unlocked. Both men were heavy masks which prevented any of the Lee's from telling whether they were white or colored. Both held pistols, one guarding Bishop Lee while the other attempted to search him. After struggling, to prevent the man continuing his search, the men, snatched a purse of Miss Lee's containing five dollars and some change, and taking $5 from Mrs. Lee, left the house.

After the episode Bishop Lee attempted to get in touch with Xenia authorities, but owing to a poor telephone connection, failed to do so, and has dropped the search. Neither Bishop Lee, his wife or daughter, are able to describe the intruders.

ROOM COMPLETED FOR THE CITY WATER DEPARTMENT NOW

Workmen at City Hall last week completed a store room for the water department in the basement of the building.

Heretofore the work room of the Water Department employees has been almost inaccessible. Located in a front room of the City Hall basement, it was filled with accumulated junk and forgotten atrocities of a half century.

The Water Department workmen not only had to make meter repairs, meter tests and other repair work in this room, but they had to keep repair parts stored there, with no adequate way of keeping check of them. Sometime ago, the work of fixing the basement was started.

Teams of Street Commissioner Roy Jenks hauled junk out of the basement for a week before work could be started. City employees then laid a cement floor in the room, adjacent to the boiler room and screened off a vestibule with wire fencing left over after the completion of the new water pumping station. Within the enclosure, which is locked, shelves and bins have been built where the different pieces of material were kept in order. There is also a place for tools, and a desk for water Superintendent Sam Loyd. A sink in one corner is used when meters are tested after being repaired and every piece of material is checked out through requisitions that are returned to the auditor's office.

There is about $5,000 worth of equipment for the Water Department in the combination store room and work room now, and at times considerably more than that is kept there, so extensive are the operations of the department. The store room has an outside basement entrance on Detroit Street.

Anew scandal, in which win Hays, Director-General of the Movies, has taken an active hand is revealed in the announcement that Wallace Reid, famous movie star, is hovering between life and death in Los Angeles, in an effort to break himself of the drug habit. Reid is happily married to Dorothy Davenport and they have one son, Wallace, Jr., and an adopted daughter.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

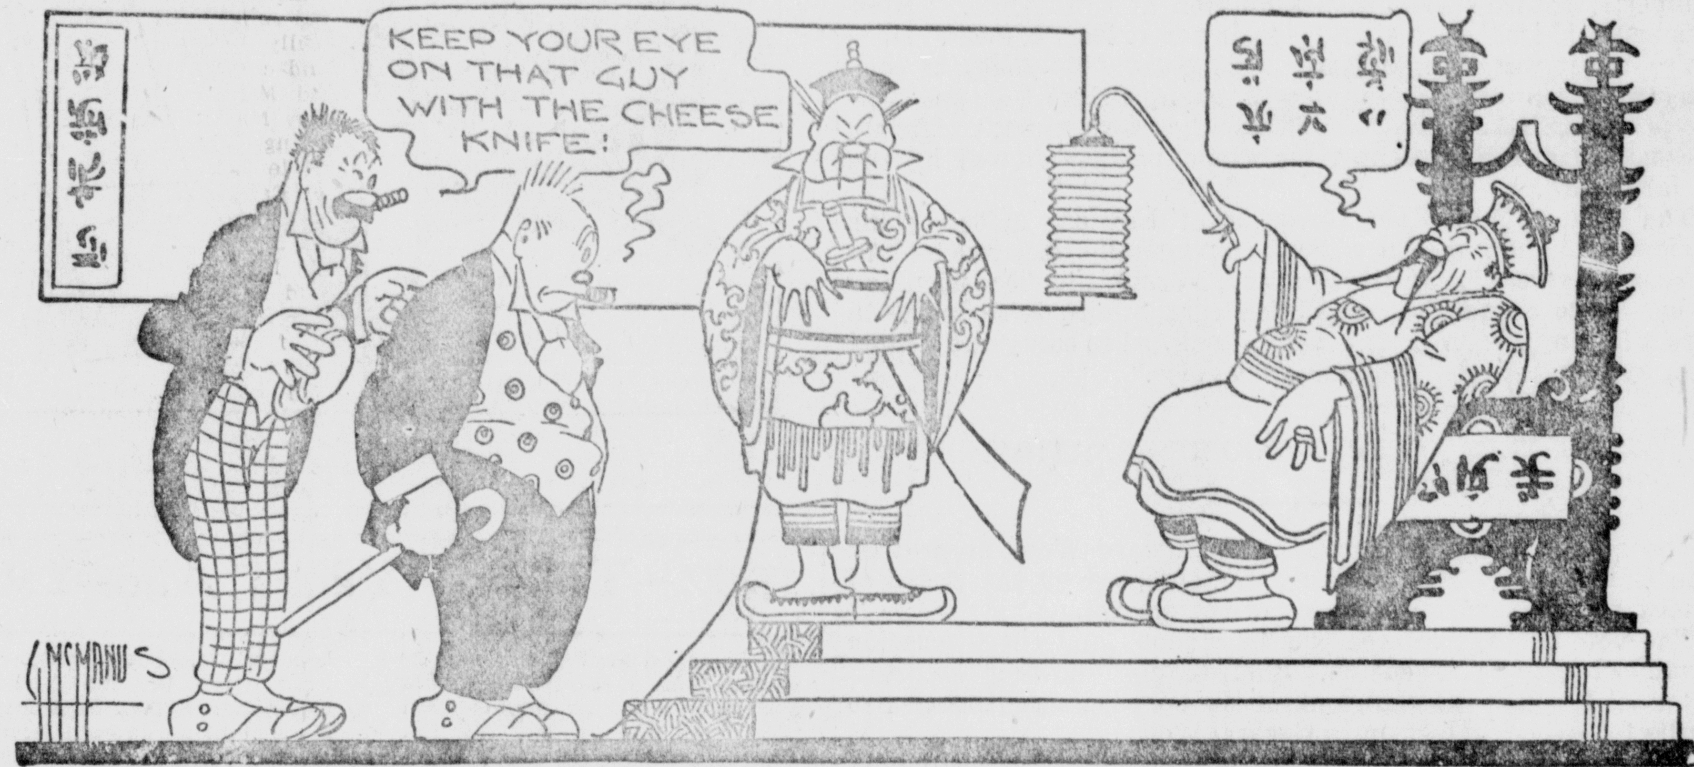

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

KLAN WIZARD TRIES TO CONVERT GOVERNOR ALLEN AND FAILS.

A bold attempt to convert Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, arch enemy of the Ku Klux Klan, to the righteousness of the Klan cause, made here by Dr. H. W. Evans, of Dallas, Tex., the newly elected imperial wizard of the "Invisible Empire," ended in dismal failure.

The meeting of the imperial wizard with the hated foe of the Klan was sought by Dr. Evans, and marked a new phase in Klan activities. Heretofore all Klan propaganda has been carried on through subterranean channels known only to the "Invisible Empire." The new Klan chief has apparently adopted a policy of "bearding the lion in his den" to change antagonists to advocates and thus forestall opposition to Klan activities.

The customary Klan secrecy was thrown about the purpose of the imperial wizard's visit to Washington at this time. Klan spokesmen said Dr. Evans would remain for at least a week. During his stay it was intimated he would pursue his policy of conferring with Klan opponents, as well as supporters. It was "entirely possible," Klansmen said, "that high Government officials and Senators and Representatives would be interviewed by the imperial wizard."

The militant anti-Klan Governor of Kansas, following his interview with the imperial wizard, emphatically declared he had "not been converted." On the contrary, he said, the discussion had only served to deepen his conviction that "there is no place in America for any organization which attempted to carry out alleged reform by members going about in disguise."

TRUSTEES ACCEPT WOOD RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Major General Leonard Wood as provost of the University of Pennsylvania was accepted by the Board of Trustees, despite vigorous protests of the alumni.

The vote of the trustees was unanimous and the discussion was marked by little dissension. Immediately following the meeting Randal Morgan, the chairman of the board, was authorized to send the following cablegram to General Wood:

The trustees of the University of Pennsylvania profoundly regret your decision, but realizing its finality, bow again, as they have in the past, to the public duty which you have always properly regarded as of first importance. With the greatest regret, therefore, they accept your resignation and at the same time wish you a continuation of success in your difficult and self-sacrificing task and assure you of their good will and confidence and high regard.

(Signed)

RANDAL MORGAN,
Chairman Board of Trustees.

In an official statement made public following the meeting no mention was made of a probable successor to General Wood and individual trustees refused to comment on that phase of the situation.

THE VALLEY OF DECISION.

Berlin has been told there is no foundation for the world-girdling rumors that a credit of $1,500,000,000 from the United States for Germany is being considered. That word from Washington will recall Germany to needed sanity and Europe to realities. Hopes that had little chance of fulfillment will droop again.

There are many things we can do for Europe, many things we can help Europe do for herself but a loan great enough to save Germany and make all Europe happy is not one of these things. America cannot play the fairy godmother to Europe.

America is rich, but it is more than doubtful if we could find money for a loan great enough to serve as a life-line for the Old World. It was wise, proper and kindly that Washington should dissolve the golden dream of that kind of help. It was beginning to do much harm.

It has been borne in upon America that she must do something, but she is of many minds as to what that something will be. We dread entering Europe's Council of Despair, but the air of aloofness is departing from the White House. Europe is pulling at us with a thousand hands, while our factories are demanding an outlet and the farmer is beginning to add his, more or less, blind pressure.

We are torn between the need of action and the dread of entanglements. All trails bend toward the League of Nations, but a fear of that is still abiding in the land. We want to be isolated and yet not isolated. It is our present tendency to steer a frightened middle course.

Cancellation of the war debts is not being considered seriously. Even the proposal for a general moratorium on war debts and interest will blow up a storm in Congress.

The Anthracite Bureau of Information has issued a circular containing instruction on the economical use of anthracite.

Increases in salaries amounting to $4,250,000 a year have been granted to the 10,000 teachers and principals in Chicago, Ill.

According to latest reports, steam and gas-propelled sea-going vessels belonging to the United States total 15,732,644 gross tons.

The heaviest snowstorm of the winter came last night and this morning the ground was covered to a depth of several inches. Those having sleighs have been hustling about getting them in shape for use and the musical jingle of the sleigh bells has a very wintry sound.

Eighty-three children, the poor of the city, gathered at the Elks rooms yesterday and gazed with expectant eyes at the tables which contained such a feast as they doubtless never before had been privileged to partake in.

Mr. David B. John, who is a traveling salesman for a large implement house at Indianapolis arrived yesterday and will spend a few days here.

The village council at Yellow Springs, at the last meeting fixed the salaries of the officials of the village as follows: Mayor, $100 per year; Marshall, $100 per year; Clerk, $100 per year; Treasurer; two per cent of all disbursements, and street commissioner, $1.50 day.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Harriet E.—When the hair is mixed with grey, the net should also be a mixture of grey and a shade the natural color of the hair. No other choice in a net will be invisible. These mixed shades may be purchased in any shop where they carry a full line of hair nets.

John Bader—Frostbitten feet should never be subjected to sudden changes of temperature. If they are there always will be a recurrence of the inflammation. Protect such feet with woolen stockings; never heat them suddenly by holding near to a fire after they have been chilled. Paint the swollen and inflamed portions with iodine every time there is a return of the itching sensations.

Bobbed Hair—Bobbed hair will always require more shampooing than hair of greater length. The reason for this is the fact that the scalp is just as active, no matter what the hair's length, so there is a tendency to oiliness in the case of the short hair.

Often it is necessary to shampoo the bobbed head every ten days, or if that seems to make the hair brittle, remove the excess oil by occasionally dusting into the hair a little powder. In such cases, never allow the powder to remain in any longer than a few minutes, when it should be thoroughly shaken out. Powder can be drying and also cause brittleness if used to excess.

Mrs. T. William R.—If your cream did not take up all of the rose water, you must have overheated the ingredients. Make it over by reheating it in a double boiler, taking care to heat it only to lukewarm; then add about 30 grains of borax to make sure of a perfect emulsion. This latter ingredient would not be necessary had you made a success of the cream at first, but it will now make a better cream for you than if you merely repeated it. This small amount of borax will not effect the skin in any way except as a cleansing agent.

SERVICE.

When first I bought a chugmobile—'twas in the misty long ago—the dealer made an ardent spiel of service that he would bestow; and so I grasped the steering wheel and pushed the tumbler to and fro. In those dark days our motor cars were needing service all the time; the works were full of squeaks and jars, and every piston was a crime, and I would break some rods or bars whenever a hill I tried to climb. And Y. Z. Spink, the man who said he'd give me service good as wheat, would start my motor when 'twas dead, and make its pulses, strongly beat; he often left his downy bed, to make my bus go up the street. The years have gone, and Y. Z. Spink does business at the ancient stand, and I have sent to him I think, some fifty men with coin in hand, who wished to buy cheap cars of zinc, or boats more sumptuous and grand. I say to them, "This delegate will promise service when you buy, and all he says is good and straight, like George, he cannot tell a lie;" this makes a hit with every skate who has been fooled by some false guy. That merchant ornaments his town who makes his talk of service good; he gains a fine and high renown far, far outside his neighborhood; and there are diamonds in his crown, that glitter as such jewels should.

I like my little friendly circle. It covers miles and miles—because pals and friends are not measured by distance or weight or color—or anything.

There's "Fitzie"—he's one of Uncle Sam's men out on the sea—thousands of miles from my little typewriter, my books and my home. But he's one of the circle. And he warns it and stretches it, so that those nearer are made all the more beautiful to me.

And I could take them up, one by one in the same way—but, you see, it's my circle and you wouldn't be interested.

But you have a circle, too!

What a small, shuffling world it would be without these circles. Each one in every circle meeting the different moods and wants, and each one always ready to help or to suggest—and sometimes to admonish.

Only on one or two occasions did he steal away to be absolutely alone. For there are times when even the friendly circle seems powerless to help, and when Higher Power must be appealed to for superhuman strength.

The man or woman who travels through life without a friendly circle to lighten and brighten the way is one of the saddest sights in human life itself.

What would Christmas mean to such a one? What could success mean? If, indeed, there could be a success under such a circumstance.

KLAN WIZARD TRIES TO CONVERT GOVERNOR ALLEN AND FAILS.

A bold attempt to convert Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, arch enemy of the Ku Klux Klan, to the righteousness of the Klan cause, made here by Dr. H. W. Evans, of Dallas, Tex., the newly elected imperial wizard of the "Invisible Empire," ended in dismal failure.

The meeting of the imperial wizard with the hated foe of the Klan was sought by Dr. Evans, and marked a new phase in Klan activities. Heretofore all Klan propaganda has been carried on through subterranean channels known only to the "Invisible Empire." The new Klan chief has apparently adopted a policy of "bearding the lion in his den" to change antagonists to advocates and thus forestall opposition to Klan activities.

The customary Klan secrecy was thrown about the purpose of the imperial wizard's visit to Washington at this time. Klan spokesmen said Dr. Evans would remain for at least a week. During his stay it was intimated he would pursue his policy of conferring with Klan opponents, as well as supporters. ## JUDGE ALLEN URGES ADOPTION OF FULL BUSINESS METHODS

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 22.—Adoption of efficient, business-like methods in the courts and a more active and general interest in their functioning are seen by Judge Florence E. Allen as the means to speed up justice and do away with the law's delays.

Miss Allen is the first woman in the world to be elected to a court of last resort, at least since that day long past when Portia apportioned even-handed justice to the high, the middle and the low. In attaining her new position she continues her precedent-breaking record. The Cleveland woman has been "first" in so many things that blazing new paths has become to her merely routine, she was:

1. The first woman to act as a full-fledged prosecutor in the Common Pleas Courts of Ohio.
2. The first woman to practice before any department in Washington.
3. The first woman to be elected a Common Pleas Judge in the United States and, as such,
4. The first woman to sentence a convicted murderer to the electric chair.
5. And last, the first woman to be elected to a court of last resort—the Ohio Supreme Court—which position she will take on January 1.

In securing her last election Miss Allen defeated the sitting judge—Judge Benson W. Hough, of Delaware, who commanded one of the remnants of the Rainbow Division overseas, and as such was an idol of the State's service men and a strong candidate of the Democratic party.

She will continue her service on the Common Pleas bench until the end of the year and then go down to Columbus, there to take her place with six men "learned in the law" and pass final judgment upon the work of other courts and the State's law-making body.

Until that time comes work goes on as usual for the judge. Arriving at her office in the dinky old court room, where she tried her first case, the morning routine is interrupted by a score or more of men and women who are waiting to offer their congratulations.

A soft-voiced pleasant mannered woman of medium height and proportions, with light brown hair, combed simply and becomingly off her ears, a wholesome, ruddy complexion, wearing a black canton crepe dress made on straight lines, trimmed with a white fillet collar, with her gray eyes looking through judicial spectacles—that is a fairly accurate picture of the new jurge.

War should be outlawed, just as murder is, she believes and voices her view with emphasis. "Certainly war should be outlawed!" she said. "Whether by calling a conference of all the great nations or by mutual agreement among the great powers, this is the next great step forward in world politics. America, I believe, will have to take the initiative, and it will take time. It was centuries after the first 'Thou shalt not kill!' was enunciated before the present criminal code was evolved and methods of enforcement worked out, but murder is no longer legally tolerated, and it is just certain that war, too, will be outlawed."

"Of course," and the judge smiled, "this is not part of my job. I expect to be quite busy with my own affairs, as I have been in my present office."

Judge Allen thinks women jurors all right. "Women jurors, as a rule, feel their duty keenly and are less likely to be swayed by the eloquence of counsel than men," she said. "However, the ideal jury is one composed of an equal number of men and women."

"I hope also to see more women, well trained and capable, taking their places in public offices," she added, but not because they are women, but because they are qualified.

The newly honored jurist has three hobbies—walking, music and poetry. She ordinarily walks to the courthouse from her home every day, a distance of five miles, and in her girlhood she for a long time contemplated a musical career. She is also a judge of good poetry and has herself written a number of poems which received high praise from the critics.

Her platform, in the late campaign, which resulted in triumph, advocated, among other objects, law enforcement business methods applied to the courts and respect for law, order and the courts.

ARMORED ROBBER FELLED BY BROOM OF SHOP KEEPER

Paris, Dec. 23.—Monsieur Tiercelette, the grizzled little man who keeps the old curiosity shop in the rue Vieille-du-Temple, was awakened by the metallic clank of footsteps in the antique store beneath his bedroom. The heavy tread of steel-shod feet grated and creaked to the stairs—then the ghostly jangle began to mount, toward Tiercelette's bedroom.

Tiercelette hobbled from his bed and with trembling fingers lighted a candle. At the head of the stairs the flickering light of the candle was reflected by Tiercelette's favorite antique, a genuine suit of fifteenth century armor, which with rusty creaking was slowly mounting the steps.

Ghost Loses Joust.
It was an unequal encounter, but Tiercelette, was not a knight to shrink a joust even against odds. With the bravery of Don Quixote he seized a broom and poked at the oncoming medieval apparition. The ghost threw up his hand to ward off the brush, lost his balance and tottered and then crashed down the steps with the din of a cookstove on a rampage falling downstairs.

Tiercelette hobbled to the bottom of the steps and put his foot on his vanquished foe. He would have kicked him, but he feared for the effect of the steel plate upon his bare toes. "Help!" screamed the armor.

"Get up!" commanded the victorious Tiercelette.

"I can't; I'm wedged in. The joints are so rusty I can't move my feet," the armor groaned.

Tiercelette called a gendarme. Yes, even at three in the morning one can find a policeman—for this happened in Paris. With the help of the policeman, a screw driver and a hammer, Tiercelette succeeded in removing most of the tinvare—all except the breast plate and corselet the combination lock of which had been badly jammed in the fall. So they loaded him into the patrol wagon and carried the canned burglar to the prefecture of police.

Can Opener Fails.
The matron of the police station offered a can opener, but it didn't make a dent in the coat of mail. Groans of pain were the only answer the erring knight errant made to the desk sergeant's questions as to why he had broken into the antique shop and the armor. It was impossible to awaken a locksmith at three in the morning, so the man-at-arms slept.

A Living Monument to Ourselves

Lawrence Sheriffe made a fortune as a shopkeeper in London. No one today knows where his shop of the sixteenth century stood, but every boy who has read "Tom Brown" knows about the school which Sheriffe founded at Rugby. The man is immortal who founded the school where such boys as Thomas Hughes, Dean Stanley, and Matthew Arnold went to school.

The founders and supporters of a Christian University like Ohio Wesleyan have built a monument that will endure through all time. They have opened a fountain of good from which a perennial stream of Christian influence will flow for future generations.

JUDGE ALLEN URGES ADOPTION OF FULL BUSINESS METHODS

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 22.—Adoption of efficient, business-like methods in the courts and a more active and general interest in their functioning are seen by Judge Florence E. Allen as the means to speed up justice and do away with the law's delays.

Miss Allen is the first woman in the world to be elected to a court of last resort, at least since that day long past when Portia apportioned even-handed justice to the high, the middle and the low. In attaining her new position she continues her precedent-breaking record. The Cleveland woman has been "first" in so many things that blazing new paths has become to her merely routine, she says:

1. The first woman to act as a full-fledged prosecutor in the Common Pleas Courts of Ohio.
2. The first woman to practice before any department in Washington.
3. The first woman to be elected a Common Pleas Judge in the United States any Division.
4. The first woman to sentence a convicted murderer to the electric chair.
5. And last, the first woman to be elected to a court of last resort—the Ohio Supreme Court—which position she will take on January 1.

In securing her last election Miss Allen defeated the sitting judge—Judge Benson W. Hough, of Delaware, who commanded one of the regiments of the Rainbow Division overseas, and as such was an idol of the State's service men and a strong candidate of the Democratic party.

She will continue her service on the Common Pleas bench until the end of the year and then go down to Columbus, there to take her place with six men "learned in the law" and pass final judgment upon the work of other courts and the State's law-making body.

Until that time comes work goes on as usual for the judge. Arriving at her office in the dinky old court room, where she tried her first case, the morning routine is interrupted by a score or more of men and women who are waiting to offer their congratulations.

A soft-voiced pleasant mannered woman of medium height and proportions, with light brown hair, combed simply and becomingly off her ears, and a wholesome, ruddy complexion, wearing a black canton crepe dress made on straight lines, trimmed with a white fillet collar, with her gray eyes looking through judicial spectacles—that is a fairly accurate picture of the new jurge.

War should be outlawed, just as murder is, she believes and voices her view with emphasis. "Certainly war should be outlawed!" she said. Whether by calling a conference of all the great nations or by mutual agreement among the great powers, this is the next great step forward in world politics, America, I believe, will have to take the initiative, and it will take time. It was centuries after the first "Thou shalt not kill" was enunciated before the present criminal code was evolved and methods of enforcement worked out, but murder is no longer legally tolerated, and it is just certain that war, too, will be outlawed.

"Of course," and the judge smiled. "This is not part of my job! I expect to be quite busy with my own affairs, as I have been in my present office."

Judge Allen thinks women jurors all right. "Women jurors, as a rule, feel their duty keenly and are less given to casual judgments than men," she said. "However, the ideal jury is composed of an equal number of men and women."

"I hope also to see more women, well trained and capable, taking their places in public offices," she added, but not because the are women, but because they are qualified.

The newly honored jurists has three hobbies—walking, music and poetry.

She ordinarily walks to the court house from her home every day, a distance of five miles, and in her girlhood she for a long time contemplated a musical career. She is also a judge of good poetry and has herself written a number of poems which received high praise from the critics.

Her platform, in the late campaign, which resulted in triumph, advocated, among other objects, law enforcement business methods applied to the courts and respect for law, order and the courts.

EAST HIGH QUINTET SHOWS GOOD FORM IN VICTORY SATURDAY

Playing the best game they have displayed since the season started the East High quintet defeated the Dayton Hi Y five at Dayton Saturday night in a fast and exciting game by the score of 14 to 13.

The Dayton Hi Y club has been claiming the 140-pound championship of the state and their setback at the hands of the East High quintet puts a feather in the caps of the high athletes. Although all of the athletes made a wonderful showing, much credit for the victory goes to Porter, who with but two minutes left to play in the final period and Dayton holding the lead, received a pass from J. Ware and dribbled through the center of the floor for a perfect shot through the hoop for the winning points.

The shot was made from two-thirds of the length of the floor away from the net. As an example of the close guarding done, the score stood 12 to 9 in favor of Xenia at the end of the first half. The five man defense used by the High lads in the second period almost eliminated scoring in that session.

Taylor and Porter played well on offense for the Xenia five while the two Ware boys and Smith showed high class defensive work. The lineup and summary:

ORGANIZATION OF LABOR PARTY STARTS

New York, Dec. 26.—Organization of a national labor party was agreed upon here at a session of the second convention of the Workers' Party of America. The proposal for its formation was said to have been made on instructions from Nicolai Lenine and the Russian communist international. In several of the addresses, speakers made veiled references to the instructions from abroad. William G. Dunne of Montana was chairman of the meeting, which was closely watched by operatives from the department of justice.

Speaking in support of the national labor party proposal, C. E. Unable to fathom the airtight defense of the visitors, the John Ross Post, American Legion basketball team was stopped in its tracks at the Rink Monday night by the fast Evanston, Illinois, Y. M. C. A. five the score being 31 to 13.

The visitors presented a large and heavy team and gave the impression of having been well drilled in all departments of the court pastime, their passwork and defensive work was the best seen here this season.

RETURN OF ARBUCKLE WILL BE OPPOSED BY MINISTERIAL UNION

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—An open meeting of the ministerial union has been called for today to discuss the proposed return of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle to the screen.

"We may be sorry for Arbuckle and anxious that he will show signs of penitence so that we might forgive him but at the present we are more interested in taking care of future generations than we are to giving this man who has sinned against society a chance to build himself up again."

Rev. G. A. Brieleb, pastor of the West Lake Presbyterian church said: "One short week ago after a sermon, Will Hays spent two hours with me in the privacy of my study. Before God he pledged himself to protect the childhood of America. With 72 hours we learned how true his pledge was."

MANUFACTURER AND FINANCIER DIES AT HOME IN SPRINGFIELD

Warren A. Myers, manufacturer and financier of Springfield, died at his residence, 926 North Fountain Avenue Monday morning after a lingering illness. Mr. Myers had been in failing health for months, death being caused by myocarditis.

Mr. Myers was one of the owners of the Robbins and Myers Company, which formerly operated a branch company in this city, serving as the company secretary. He was former owner of the Springfield Daily Sun, having sold his interests in that paper in April, 1922 to Congressman Charles L. Knight of Akron.

He was president of the American Trust and Savings Bank, vice-president of the First National Bank, a director in the Edward Wren Company, and an extensive operator of Springfield down-town real estate.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hazel M. Myers, and three daughters, his mother, Mrs. James A. Myers, and a brother, Wilbur J. Myers of Signal Hill. His father, who with the late Chandler Robbins, founded the Robbins and Myers company, in 1885, died about 20 years ago.

He was prominent in Masonic lodge circles, and served in various capacities of public service.

EAST HIGH QUINTET SHOWS GOOD FORM IN VICTORY SATURDAY

Playing the best game they have displayed since the season started the East High quintet defeated the Dayton Hi Y five at Dayton Saturday night in a fast and exciting game by the score of 14 to 13.

The Dayton Hi Y club has been claiming the 140-pound championship of the state and their set-back at the hands of the East High quintet puts a feather in the caps of the high athletes. Although all of the athletes made a wonderful showing, much credit for the victory goes to Porter, who with but two minutes left to play in the final period and Dayton holding the lead, received a pass from J. Ware and dribbled through the center of the floor for a perfect shot through the hoop for the winning points.

The shot was made from two-thirds of the length of the floor away from the net. As an example of the close guarding done, the score stood 12 to 9 in favor of Xenia at the end of the first half. The five man defense used by the High lads in the second period almost eliminated scoring in that session.

Taylor and Porter played well on offense for the Xenia five while the two Ware boys and Smith showed high class defensive work. The lineup and summary:

East High—14 High Y—13
Taylor ..... L. F. ..... Smith
Porter ..... R. F. ..... McGregor
B. Ware ..... C. ..... Mack
Smith ..... L. G. ..... Saunders

Substitutions: Dayton, Caesar for Jackson, Taylor for Caesar. Field goals: Xenia, Taylor 1, Porter 4; Dayton, Smith 1, Mack 1, Caesar 2, Taylor 2. Foul goals, Xenia Taylor 4, Dayton: Smith 1, Referee: L. Rachford.

ORGANIZATION OF LABOR PARTY STARTS

New York, Dec. 26.—Organization of a national labor party was agreed upon here at a session of the second convention of the Workers' Party of America. The proposal for its formation was said to have been made on instructions from Nicolai Lenin and the Russian communist international. In several of the addresses, speakers made veiled references to the instructions from abroad. William G. Dunne of Montana was chairman of the meeting, which was closely watched by operatives from the department of justice.

Speaking in support of the national labor party proposal, C. E. Ruthenberg, secretary of the Workers' party, said that workers in this country could not be led into a revolutionary class movement all at once, but would have to be educated through a political machine. The recent Cleveland conference was condemned.

LEGION TEAM TAKES SHORT END OF COUNT FROM EVANSTON FIVE

Unable to fathom the airtight defense of the visitors, the John Ross Post, American Legion basketball team was stopped in its tracks at the Rink Monday night by the fast Evanston, Illinois, Y. M. C. A. five the score being 31 to 13.

The visitors presented a large and heavy team and gave the impression of having been well drilled in all departments of the court pastiming, their passwork and defensive work was the best seen here this season.

Lewis and Anderson, local forwards were closely watched, Anderson played a fine floor game for the locals although he was guarded very closely. Harris, center, seemed to have an off night and did not make but two baskets. Powers was forced to retire due to an injury to his knee. The team work of the visitors was brilliant. The lineup and summary:

Xenia —13 Evanston—31

RETURN OF ARBUCKLE WILL BE OPPOSED BY MINISTERIAL UNION

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—An open meeting of the ministerial union has been called for today to discuss the proposed return of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle to the screen.

Rev. "Bob" Shuler, one of the clergymen active in the agitation against Arbuckle, in announcing the meeting said today:

"We may be sorry for Arbuckle and anxious that he will show signs of penitence so that we might forgive him but at the present we are more interested in taking care of future generation than we are to giving this man who has ruined against society a chance to build himself up again."

Rev. G. A. Briggleb, pastor of the West Lake Presbyterian church said: "One short week ago after a sermon, Will Hays spent two hours with me in the privacy of my study. Before God he pledged himself to protect the childhood of America. With 72 hours we learned how true his pledge was."

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Old Housewife: "How can I remove the shine from silk?"
Answer: Dissolve one tablespoon of cooking soda in one quart of cold water and sponge the silk, wringing out the sponge as dry as possible. Then take one quart of cold water, add to it two tablespoons of household ammonia, and sponge the silk again. Dry and press.

A Reader of Your Paper: "Not long ago I sat in a street car and overheard two women talking about a delicious relish for cold meats which they made. They said it was made with tomatoes, peaches, pears and onions—and there might have been other ingredients in it, but they got off the car and I could not hear the rest. Can you, or any of your readers, help me in finding this recipe?"
Answer: I am sorry to say that I have no such recipe, but let us hope that some reader has, and will write it on a postal and send it to me for publication.

A Spendthrift: "Please publish a financial budget for a family of two who have an income of $35 a week. We pay $24 a month for rent. We are heavy eaters and go a good bit."
Answer: You have given me a knotty problem! Also, I do not attempt to build budgets in general because the rent in various localities is so different that it is practically impossible to give rules that all may follow. Every family must make out its own budget, based on experience. But I might suggest that if you pay $6 a week for rent, $15 for food (that is too much for two, though!), 50 cents for phone, $1.50 for light, $8 for fuel, and $2 for incidentals, you will have spent your $35 for the week wisely. This does not allow you money for laundry, ashes carried away and clothes. Nor does it cover the emergency when a doctor's or dentist's services are needed. Many couples, today, with a fairly small salary have found "light housekeeping" the solution. By this, I mean living in a large furnished room, or two rooms and getting breakfast and lunch at home, and dinners at a restaurant. When only one room has to do, they use couch-beds which do not look like beds during the day, and chests of drawers, with mirrors over them. This is not ideal, but it enables them to live within their incomes—and, if they are very thrifty, to put by a little money each week.

Mrs. B. B. and Mrs. F. M.: "Please give recipe for Candied Citron."
Answer: Candied Citron: Cut citron melon into quarters, pare, and remove seeds. Cut it into small pieces and drop these into a sirup (one cup of sugar to one-half cup of water) boiled until it "spins a thread"—just as boiled cake icing. Cook the citron in this sirup till transparent, then drain and dry it in a slow oven. Finish drying on top of range, off the very hot part.

Synopsis of Proceeding Chapters.

Grace Harter and her husband, George, (friends of Walter's) Doreen also does not care for although Grace makes friendly advances. Walter's mother dislikes both Grace and Helen. The elder Mrs. Page has been a disturbing element in the household while making an extended visit. Then Doreen gives birth to a son, Jack, to whom Mrs. Page becomes so devoted that she purposes making a permanent home with son and daughter in law. This necessitates moving into a larger apartment.

When had Walter sat for that picture and why hadn't he brought me one?

I asked myself the question as I hurried out of the house and down the walk. I had no intention of waiting in the house, giving them more time together.

"Did you think we never were coming back, Mrs. Page?" Helen asked. "I told Walter you would be furious."

"I don't know why you should tell him that; why you should think it," I replied quietly, seeing inwardly at her tone. "I see nothing in his taking his model to ride to become furious over."

I made no reply, was thinking hard wondering if I should mention the picture I had seen. I concluded it would be only natural, so said:

"When did you have that photograph taken she had on her table? It is a very good one."

Walter flushed a little.

"Oh, she ragged me until I sat for it," he answered. "If you like it I'll have another struck off."

"Why in the world should she rag you for a picture?" I asked.

"I destroyed those silly snap-shots and she was terribly put out about it. So to quiet her I agreed to have a decent picture taken. It was easier to do that than to be bothered with complaints."

How like him. Anything to have things go pleasantly.

"It seems to me she had a good deal of nerve to ask it," I said, "and then to exhibit it so openly. She seems to forget you are a married man, or perhaps in her code that means nothing."

"She isn't straitlaced, that's sure!" he said with a laugh. "But she's harmless. Now I'll step on the gas and we'll soon be home."

I saw he didn't wish to talk any longer so I also kept still. But I wasn't through as regarded that picture. We would have one at home. And Helen should know we had one. It may have been a petty feeling that actuated me; but I couldn't bear her having the only picture taken in that pose.

SEEKS TO STAMP OUT ILLITERACY FROM HIS STATE

Kansas City, Kan., Dec. 23.—Now that the time is nearing when he will loosen his hold upon the executive reins of the "Sunflower" State, Governor Henry J. Allen has started a drive which he hopes will ultimately stamp illiteracy entirely from the State. Not that Kansas' percentage of illiteracy is necessarily high—in fact a recent census revealed that it is only 1.6, compared with one other State which, the census showed has a percentage of 21.9.

Governor Allen pointed out that the near future will see laws enacted by the State Legislature which will provide for wider dissemination of knowledge in the remote country districts—the towns, hamlets and villages which are more or less segregated from the big industrial centers.

Statistics compiled recently disclosed that out of a total of more than 22,000 illiterate persons in Kansas above the age of ten nearly 21,000 were those of voting age. It was further revealed that of these illiterates 10,450 were of foreign parentage, and more than 4,000 are negroes.

Native sons and daughters of Kansas point with pride to the fact that in the last twelve years there has been a decrease of .6 per cent in illiteracy in their state, while census figures from several other States for that period indicate a

During the World War, when men were inducted into the military service of the nation, the various tests to determine and sift out the illiterates revealed some significant figures as to the number of men throughout the country who were not even able to read or write their own names, according to Governor Allen. These tests revealed that 75 per cent of America's "flower of manhood" were among the mediocre intelligent, while nearly 25 per cent failed to pass the simplest tests and were classified as illiterates.

The Governor expressed himself as hopeful that his efforts to increase the intelligence of Kansas's future men and women would have the support of those who succeed him in office and that they would "carry on" the battle to such an extent that Kansas will within the next few years be an exemplary State—a pattern of "better education."

When had Walter sat for that picture and why hadn't he brought me one?

I had scored. I had said his "model"

so putting her on a plane she didn't care to take. She flushed angrily, turned to Walter and said:

"I'll keep you next time, see if I don't! I don't get any credit for being unselfish this lovely day."

Walter looked from one to the other of us, not quite sure whether we were chafing, or in earnest. I calmly took my seat in the car, and waited while he spoke of his picture, his hope she would feel able to appear at the studio in a day or two.

"I would if I didn't get so blue! That upsets me so," she told him. "If it is a nice day tomorrow couldn't you give me a little ride again? It does take me out of the mulgrums."

"Why, of course! That is, unless Doreen has something on hand." He looked at me.

"No, nothing particular Walter and I know you are anxious to finish your picture. If giving Helen a ride will hurry it, do by all means."

Again I had put her where she belonged. She was something needed in his business, like his easel, and his colors.

"Thank you," Helen said with an exaggerated courtesy. "I'll try not to bore you, Walter."

"You never do that!" he answered gayly, getting into the car. "I'll run out about this time tomorrow if nothing prevents."

"I'll be all ready! Don't you dare disappoint me!" she replied laughing, shaking her finger at him. Then as he started the car she thanked me for coming and stood waving goodbye until we had turned the corner.

"She's a grateful creature," Walter said, as he slowed down to light a cigarette. "She praised you unstintingly for waiting while I took her out."

I made no reply, was thinking hard wondering if I should mention the picture I had seen. I concluded it would be only natural, so said:
